- I. Scholarships are established for the purposes of facilitating international education and enrolling international students at the National Chin-Yi University of Technology (the "University") with excellent academic standing, and encouraging them to pursue their studies.
- II. Subjects: The International Industrial Talent Education Special Program (INTENSE Program) or new international students (excluding students from the International Bachelor Program, Hong Kong, Macau, and Mainland China, as well as overseas Chinese students and exchange students) who are officially enrolled at the University and who have not received government scholarships.
- III. Mode:
 - (1) Free tuition and miscellaneous fees for the first and second year for doctoral students studying at the University; free tuition and miscellaneous fees for the first year for international students; free tuition and miscellaneous fees for the first semester for other international pre-graduate students studying at the University.
 - (2) Graduate students who have enrolled and completed registration from the second semester of the 2021 academic year (inclusive) may receive an additional NT$5,000 scholarship per semester (up to four semesters; subject to two semesters for other international pre-graduate students).
 - (3) Starting from the 2024 academic year, master's students enrolled in the new specialist program (INTENSE Program) who have completed registration will be provided with a scholarship of NT$5,000 per semester (up to a maximum of four semesters). Tuition and fees for the first year are subsidized by the National Development Council (NDC) (NT$100,000 per academic year). Any shortfall will be covered by the university. For the third and fourth semesters, students must pass evaluations by both the school and enterprises. The NDC will subsidize tuition and fees for 70% of the students (NT$50,000 per semester), and any shortfall will be covered by the University. The remaining 30% of students will receive subsidies according to the Guidelines for the Establishment of International Student Scholarships of the National Chin-Yi University of Technology.

- IV. Application process: After international students have enrolled, the Office of International Affairs will make a list with the Offices of Student Affairs and submit it to the President for approval.
- V. Those who have already been awarded a scholarship under the Guidelines are not eligible to apply for other similar scholarships at the University. Eligibility will be withdrawn if enrollment is not completed or suspended. Students may not re-apply for a scholarship if they re-enroll after suspension.
- VI. Funding sources: Scholarships are awarded from the University Student Financial Aid Fund.
- VII. An Evaluation Committee of International Student Scholarships and Financial Aid has been set up to review scholarship applications from international students, comprising five persons selected by the President from members of the University Student Financial Aid Committee, one of whom is elected as the convener of the Committee.
- VIII. The Guidelines enter into effect from the date of promulgation following ratification by the University Student Financial Aid Committee. The same process shall apply to any future amendments.
